

An invitation to the festival from Slavic circle (Slovansky kruh), Czech Republic.

Dear friends and colleagues, let me invite you, individually and with my group as well, to the Rodokrug – an international festival of native traditions. We organize the festival together with other Czech and Slovak traditional and environmental organizations.

It is a great pleasure for us and we are looking forward to the moments of mutual sharing of our ancestors' wisdom.

We are inviting you to this unique event as participants, as well as creators of the festival program. If you are interested in placing your tradition in the program, you will not pay for the ticket to the festival and members of your group will pay only a half of the price of the entrance fee.

You will find more information in the attached invitation.

Come to share your traditional and human wisdom.

Cordially, on behalf of the organizing team

Zdenek Ordelt
